OTHER REGIONS

Consultation and negotiations in these regions of the Basin are continuing. It may not be appropriate to establish committees in some regions, particularly when there are existing planning processes (such as in South Australia) or where the population is sparse. In these instances regions have discussed having membership on the Lake Eyre Basin Coordinating Group. It has been agreed that this membership must be determined through a fair and accountable method. The individual/s from each region will be supported in communicating with all interest groups in their region. In this way an appropriate process for involvement of each region in the Coordinating Group will be agreed and established.
